May Course of the Month: Teaching and Modeling Behavior

This course helps teacher/coaches understand the importance of modeling appropriate behavior and promoting good sportsmanship. Authored by Bruce Brown, Director of Proactive Coaching, this course helps coaches understand how inappropriate behavior affects how they and their teams are perceived by students, fans, opposing teams, and officials. The course highlights the benefits of a proactive approach in teaching and modeling behavior, as well as specific examples for rehearsing appropriate behavior and sportsmanship.

New Course Launched: Coaching Tennis

In partnership with the United States Tennis Association (USTA), the NFHS has developed an online course for tennis coaches. The course includes information on coaching styles, types of team practices, and skill acquisitions, in addition to sections on tactics and competition. Coaching Tennis

User Look Up has a New Look

User Lookup on NFHSLearn.com has a new look and has more power than ever before. New functionality allows faster searches with greater detail, as well as the ability to save searches to use later. It also offers the option to export searches to your own spreadsheet. We urge people to make sure their profile information is updated, especially their school!

2016 National Coaching Conference

The 19th annual National Coaching Conference (NCC) will take place in Seattle June 21-23. Please see 2016 National Coaching Conference for details.

NFHSLearn Application Program Interface (API) for State Associations

The NFHS has launched an API for state associations to use to get real-time course completion information from NFHSLearn.com. Several states were involved in a pilot program and a few others have since been added. If you are interested in using the API, please contact Dan Schuster (dschuster@nfhs.org).

Retirement Announced

Barb Johnson, who has been with the NFHS since January 2000 will retire effective August 1, 2016. Barb worked with Tim Flannery in the creation and launching of www.nfhslearn.com when it began in January 2007 with its first course, Fundamentals of Coaching. In addition to working with the Learning Center, Barb has worked with the NFHS Coaches Association and its coach awards program.
